

Honorable bibliothécaire,

Notre ouvrage vous est fourni gratuitement. Nous pensons qu'il sera tôt ou tard largement examiné et controversé.

Honorable bibliothécaire,

Vous vous demandez quoi en faire, ce qui nous surprend quelque peu. Voici :

- Le transmettre – tout spécialement – au Juge écossais en chef ; Autrement :
- Au ministre chargé des Affaires Écossaises ;
- Au Parlement Écossais (n'importe quel Membre, à votre choix, s'en trouvant l'heureux bénéficiaire).

Honorable bibliothécaire,

J'attire votre attention sur ce qui suit ; ceci pourrait peut-être suffire à éviter que vous détruisiez à la légère notre sublime Manuel...

★ Au temps mal nommé de la "Nuit du moyen-âge" (5°/10° s.), les étrangers étaient déroutés en mettant les pieds en terre écossaise. Pourquoi donc ? Parce que la coutume de vos ancêtres voulait que la royauté se transmette selon la filiation féminine. (Tout l'inverse de la Loi Salique des français : Dagobert/630 → Philippe le Long/1317 !).

★ Or, et c'est là où je voulais en venir : notre doctrine Réaliste Vraie rend hommage, sérieusement et comme il se doit, au vestige celtique matriarcal qui est en question ; et elle le rétablit absolument dans ses droits historiques, que le roi Kenneth Mac Alpin connaissait quand il s'assit en 843 sur la Pierre de Destinée (à Scone), celle-là même (dira-t-on) sur laquelle Jacob dormit à Bethel...

Honorable bibliothécaire,

★ De grâce ! N'importe quel libraire d' « ANEDA » (votre cité, n'est-ce pas ?) rêverait assurément de posséder un bouquin comme le nôtre, on ne peut plus original !

★ Et puis, je vous en prie, en dernier recours, vous ne pouvez mépriser notre précieux écrit, au point de ne même pas songer à en faire cadeau au clochard qui tend la main non loin de votre domicile ! Faites-le ! Je suis sûre qu'il saura en tirer parti.

Salutations,
Sylvie

Honourable librarian,

Our work is given to you for free. We feel that it must be widely looked at and keenly contested, sooner or later.

Honourable librarian,

You wonder about what for, this fact surprising us somewhat. Here you are:

- Passing it – in particular – to the scottish Justice in chief. Otherwise:
- To the Scottish Secretary;
- To the Scottish Parliament (anyone to your liking, among the M.S.Ps, as lucky beneficiary).

Honourable librarian,

I ask you to draw your eye to what follows; this may be perhaps enough to prevent you to rashly destroy our beauteous Handbook...

★ In the days of the badly called “darkage” (5°/10° c.) the foreigners used to be puzzled when setting foot on Scottish land. But why? Because your ancestors’ custom had it that the kingship was handed down through the female filiation. (This, diametrically opposed to the Frankish Salic Law: Dagobert/630 → Philippe le Long/1317 !).

★ Now, and that is the point I wanted to come to: at last, our True-Realist doctrine pays tribute, seriously and in the correct way, to the Celtic matriarchal vestige at issue; and it utterly restores its historical title, that which king Kenneth Mac Alpin knew, when he sat on the Stone of Fate in 843, this very Stone (will it be told) on which Jacob slept at Bethel...

Honourable librarian,

★ For pity’s sake! Any bookseller of « ANEDA » (your city, isn’t it?) would definitely dream of keeping a book as ours, as eccentric as can be!

★ Anyway, please, as a last resort, you can not despise our valuable piece of writing, up to the point such as not even mind giving it as a gift to the tramp who holds out his hand, within easy reach of your home! Do it! I am sure he will find how to make the most of it!

Yours sincerely,
Sylvie

Dear Sir/Madam,

The National Library of Scotland recently received a donation of Here we go! Under the banner of ANAR-COMM.

Regretfully we have to decline your kind offer because the item does not fall strictly within the Library's collecting policy.

Please let us know if you would prefer us to return the book to you, or whether you would be willing for us to dispose of it through our normal procedures.

If we do not receive a reply from you within three months we will dispose of it.

Many thanks and I look forward to hearing from you.

Yours faithfully,
Fiona
